A Classification and Subject Index for Cataloguing and ...

Subject indexing is the act of describing or classifying a document by index terms or other symbols in order to indicate what the document is about, to summarize its content or to increase its findability. In other words, it is about identifying and describing the subject of documents. Indexes are constructed, separately, on three distinct levels: terms in a document such as a book; objects in a collection such as a library; and documents within a field of knowledge. Subject ...

The index pages at this site are organized according to the Mathematics Subject Classification (MSC) scheme. (This is the scheme developed by the American Mathematical Society and Zentralblatt für Mathematik. Here's the original.) Begin with a major heading from the right column below.

Index via Mathematics Subject Classification (MSC)

The subject classification seers from the following disadvantages. 1. It is very difficult to classify and identify the documents if the subject is not understood by the employee. 2. Subject classification requires cross reference frequently which leads to consumption of lot of time. 3. An index should be prepared if the volume of correspondence is large. 4. It is not suitable for miscellaneous papers.
