We visited Dresden following two weeks in Eastern Europe last September and the Frauenkirche was one of the highlights of the entire trip. The message of hope and renewal and the participation of the world in the reconstruction was inspiring. We were missing our usual Rick Steves recommendations for lodging however..ended up in a big box hotel.

Stop in Dresden? - Rick Steves Travel Forum

Dresden offers world-class museums and a very small, partly reconstructed old town with some important buildings. I would see one museum in the morning and one in the afternoon, and between the two visits explore the old town and have a meal and Kaffee und Kuchen (coffee and cake - Saxons are also known as "Coffee-Saxons"). Please note that the museum are in two buildings; the Zwinger and the ...

Rick Steves' Europe. ... We did the VW Transparent Factory tour in 2012 from our base in Dresden and I think with travel time both ways by bus and the tour (including browsing the showroom at the end of the tour and a snack from the VW Cafe onsite) it was about three hours. We did both levels of the Green Vault fairly quickly on another day and ...
