Unstoppable Global Warming: Every 1,500 Years is a book about climate change, written by Siegfried Fred Singer and Dennis T. Avery, which asserts that natural changes, and not CO2 emissions, are the cause of Global Warming. Published by Rowman & Littlefield in 2006, the book sold well and was reprinted in an updated edition in 2007. The title refers to the hypothesis of 1,500-year climate cycles in the Holocene first Unstoppable Global Warming is a fascinating and is a different view from others, like the media, on global warming. The authors, Fred Singer and Dennis Avery, are both smart and respected men that seemed to be well informed. I found that most of the book was interesting, but could get boring and lackluster at some points.
